Stillness

Paintings and Drawings from Life

---

5–27 January 2019

Saturdays and Sundays only

11.00am–4.00pm

Private view Friday 4 January

6.00pm–8.00 pm

Birley Centre

Stillness is a selection of works from studio still life set-ups and landscapes done en plein air on the Sussex Downs. All works are the outcome of the accumulation of drawn and painted responses formed over prolonged study of the subject matter. The paintings illustrate the calming power of stillness.

David Stubbs lives and works as an artist in Eastbourne and teaches life painting at The Heatherley School of Fine Art in London.

Hedda Gabler by Henrik Ibsen

---

Tuesday and Wednesday 5 and 6
February
6.45pm

College Theatre

Despite having just returned from her honeymoon, Hedda Gabler longs for her freedom. Trapped in a loveless, stifling marriage, her boredom soon turns to destruction as she begins to influence her sorry situation through a series of manipulative actions and treacheries against her nearest and dearest in an attempt to control her own life. A free spirit, it seems Hedda will stop at nothing to escape.

Now a set text for A-level, this production features the A-level pupils in an creative production directed by Claudine Sinnett.

Wednesday and Thursday
20 and 21 March

Le Brocq

In a violent, tight-knit community, secrets can be demons, betrayal can cost you your life. Eddie is in denial about his 'unspeakable desire' for his 17-year-old niece Katie; his wife suspects his intentions. Hiding two immigrants, Eddie is horrified to find Katie falling in love. His dilemma is solved by the police arresting them. But the community has a way of dealing with snitches: Eddie is forced to face the consequences of illicit love and betrayal and is 'pulled inside out', and 'made known' to us. That is his tragedy in this deceptively simple tale.

Bond – An Unauthorised Parody

Tuesday 26 March

6.45pm

College Theatre

Written and performed by Gavin Robertson
Directed by Nicholas Collett. Minimum props, maximum effect and featuring the smallest car chase (n)ever seen.

Bond is back. Unfit, older but still wisecracking, and someone's out to get him. Gavin Robertson focuses his attention on the Bond phenomenon in this latest cartoon-style adventure, exploding every cliché in the book(s). Solo. Bond meets his greatest arch-villain yet, author Ian Fleming himself, courtesy of a time-machine.

'Clever, witty and inventive'

Raw Magazine Australia

'Performs with a subtle authority that is compelling to watch' The Guardian

An Afternoon with Evelyn Glennie

In conversation with Darren Johnson, with musical interludes and time for questions from the audience

Sunday 14 April
3.30pm (doors 2.30pm)

College Theatre and Warren Atrium

Dame Evelyn Glennie, the Scottish virtuoso percussionist has been profoundly deaf since the age of 12 and claims to have taught herself to hear with parts of her body other than her ears.

Along with her fifteen honorary university doctorates she was recently awarded the Polar Music Prize (Nobel Prize in Music) and in 2012, was chosen to perform at the Opening Ceremony of London's Olympic Games. This is a rare opportunity to learn more about her trailblazing personal and musical journey to overcome disability and develop a stellar career as the first ever international solo percussionist.
